

TecXFRA

COMPLETE TOTAL CONTROL

The Business Operating System

A BYINFORGH Company

The Business Owner Guide

Prepared for business owners ready to stop running their business from memory.

www.tecxfra.com · contact@tecxfra.com

Contents

- 01 Before You Read Another Word
- 02 What TecXFRA Actually Is
- 03 The Seven Pillars
- 04 Everything That's Inside, Today
- 05 Built to Grow With You, Not Ahead of You
- 06 Who TecXFRA Is Built For
- 07 The Questions Every Serious Owner Should Be Asking
- 08 The Mark Behind the Name
- 09 State of Your Business, A Self-Assessment
- 10 Ready to See It on Your Own Business?

01. Before You Read Another Word

Answer this honestly. Not for us, not for anyone watching.

If your business closed for one week with no explanation, would your customers, your staff, and your numbers still make sense when you reopened?

Most business owners answer that question with a pause, not a yes. Not because they aren't working hard, because the business is running on memory. In a notebook. On WhatsApp chats that scroll away. On "I know my numbers" that nobody has actually written down.

That pause is the entire reason TecXFRA exists.

A business you can't see clearly is a business you can only grow by accident.

TecXFRA was built to close that gap permanently. Not with another app to check. With one operating system that already knows everything the others would have made you re-type.

02. What TecXFRA Actually Is

TecXFRA is not a CRM. It is not an accounting tool. It is not a point-of-sale terminal with a few extra screens bolted on. Those are pieces of a business. TecXFRA is the whole business, held in one place.

A Business Operating System.

The same way an operating system sits underneath every app on your phone, coordinating them, remembering what they can't remember alone, and making them work as one device instead of ten, TecXFRA sits underneath every function of a business: what happened today, what money moved, who your customers are, what needs following up, what was sold, and whether the business is on track.

One login. One truth. Every part of the business speaks the same language, updating the same picture, in real time.

Sell something at the till, and the customer records updates, stock reduces, a WhatsApp thank-you fires, the audit trail logs it, and tomorrow's task list already knows. That is not automation for its own sake. That is what Complete Total Control actually feels like on a Tuesday afternoon.

03. The Seven Pillars

TecXFRA takes its name from the seven functions every business runs on, whether they're written down or not. Naming them is the first step to controlling them.

Letter	Pillar	What it means for you
T	Today	The daily pulse. What must happen today, this hour, before anything else.
e	Expenses	Every cedi in and out, tracked as it moves, not reconstructed at month end.
C	CRM	Every customer, lead, and conversation in one place, never trapped in a personal phone.
X	Execution	The centre. Where daily effort turns into measurable growth, retention, and referrals.
F	Follow-Ups	The business that never forgets. No lead goes quiet by accident again.
R	Revenue	Sales, invoicing, and cash flow, captured the moment value is created.
A	Accountability	Daily discipline, audits, and built-in AI guidance, the oversight layer that never clocks off.

04. Everything That's Inside, Today

This is the part that changes every time TecXFRA grows, and it has grown a great deal. If a business owner is only picturing sales and expenses, they are picturing about a third of what is actually here.

21 modules, working, across all seven pillars

- Today, Checklist, the daily command view.
- Expenses & Budgets, Inventory & Stock.
- CRM & Pipeline, Calendar, Bookings & Orders.
- Referrals & Retention, Ideal Client Persona, Growth Library, Guide Store, Revenue & Analytics.
- Follow-Ups, Messages & Templates.
- Sales / POS, Invoicing & Debtors.
- Staff & Shifts, Daily Accountability, Business Audit, AI Assistant, Journal & Notes.

A built-in library that would cost thousands elsewhere

The Growth Library ships with every plan, real, Ghana-specific business education, not filler. The Guide Store sits alongside it with deeper, standalone playbooks on digital shopfronts, WhatsApp selling systems, customer service, and referral engineering, each one built to lead naturally into the next.

An AI Assistant that knows your business, not just business in general

It answers from your own live numbers, follow-ups due, today's revenue, stock levels, conversion rate, not from a generic script. The more the business feeds it, the sharper it gets.

This is not a spreadsheet with a login screen.

It is the closest thing to hiring a COO, an accountant, and a marketing coach, for the price of a subscription.

05. Built to Grow With You, Not Ahead of You

Most business software makes a business choose too early: buy the simple version and outgrow it in a year, or buy the complex version and pay for a dozen features that sit unused. Neither respects where a business actually is.

TecXFRA grows in stages, on your terms. A business starts with exactly what it needs, often nothing more than income and expenses, tracked properly for the first time. As it grows, it adds what it's ready for. Nothing already built is ever lost. Every stage adds onto the one before it, never replaces it.

Plan	What it means for you
Free	2 Enterprise, 3 Growth, and 5 Starter slots exist platform-wide, once. First come, first served, then every plan is paid from day one.
Starter	The affordable entry point. Pay to unlock more as you grow. A market trader is never turned away, and nothing already owned is ever lost.
Growth	The standard home for a serious, growing SME, the plan most businesses settle into.
Enterprise	Every module, the full Guide Store, and white-label branding, your own logo and colours. Running a complete business from a phone.

Only 10 founding slots, ever

This is not a marketing countdown. It is a hard cap built into the platform itself. Once the 10 founding slots are gone, they do not return, every business after that starts on a paid plan from day one.

06. Who TecXFRA Is Built For

TecXFRA is industry-aware from the first two minutes of setup. It doesn't ask a business to bend itself into a generic template, it reshapes itself around the business.

- Retail & shopfronts, stock, sales, and repeat customers under one roof.
- Hospitality, food & beverage, bookings, orders, and guests who keep coming back.
- Personal & professional services, salons, clinics, consultancies, trades.
- Real estate & property, listings, viewings, and a pipeline that never goes cold.
- Logistics, education, and beyond, the same spine, reshaped for how each industry actually runs.

Whether it's one owner doing everything, or a company with departments and staff who each need their own view into the same business, TecXFRA reshapes around the answer.

07. The Questions Every Serious Owner Should Be Asking

Growth doesn't start with new software. It starts with new questions. Before TecXFRA can help, a business owner has to be willing to ask what's actually true, not what feels true.

Do you know your real cost per customer, not roughly, exactly?

Most owners know their revenue. Far fewer know what it actually costs, in time and money, to acquire and keep each customer. Without that number, "more sales" can quietly mean "more losses."

How many of last month's customers will you never hear from again, and do you know why?

Most businesses lose customers silently. No complaint, no explanation, just silence. TecXFRA's Follow-Ups engine exists so that silence never happens by accident again.

Could your business run for a week without you?

If the honest answer is no, that is not a compliment to your work ethic. It is a warning about how much of the business only exists in your head.

08. The Mark Behind the Name

Every part of TecXFRA's identity was chosen with intent, not decoration.

The Symbol

The mark is a single pin, the universal signal for "exactly here." A business using TecXFRA always knows precisely where it stands, today's numbers, this month's position, this customer's history. No guessing, no digging.

The Colours

- Navy, authority, stability, the weight of a serious operating system, not a toy.
- Teal, clarity and forward motion, the colour of a business that can finally see itself.
- Cream, calm. A workspace that reduces noise instead of adding to it.
- Amber, the highlight colour for streaks, wins, and the moments worth noticing.

09. State of Your Business, A Self-Assessment

Answer honestly. This isn't a test to pass, it's a mirror. Score each area from 0 to 3: 0 = not at all, 1 = informally, in my head, 2 = partly systemised, 3 = fully systemised and consistent.

- Visibility & Discoverability, can a stranger find and trust your business online in under a minute?
- Customer & Follow-Up Systems, does anyone ever fall silent without you noticing?
- Money, Do you know your real numbers, or your remembered ones?
- Operations & Consistency, would the business run the same on your worst day as your best?
- Team & Accountability, could you step away for a week?
- Growth Readiness, do you know, today, if you're ready to hire, expand, or open a second location?

If most of your honest scores sit at 0 or 1, that is not a judgement. It is exactly the gap TecXFRA was built to close.

10. Ready to See It on Your Own Business?

TecXFRA is onboarded business by business, with real attention, not handed out as a generic template. If the questions in this guide made you pause even once, that pause is worth a conversation.

Complete Total Control is not a slogan. It's a Tuesday afternoon where you already know the answer.

Start the conversation today, while a founding slot is still open.

BYINFORGH, the team behind TecXFRA

Email: contact@tecxfra.com

Platform: www.tecxfra.com

TecXFRA, Complete Total Control. A BYINFORGH Company.